WITH

SHORT BIOGRAPHICAL NOTICES.

JULY 1892.

P 488
L 59

LONDON :

PRINTED BY TAYLOR AND FRANCIS,

RED LION COURT, FLEET STREET.

A wish has been expressed on several occasions that a Catalogue of the Pictures and Busts in the possession of the Royal College of Surgeons of England should be compiled, and although from time to time attempts have been made to supply the want, no one has hitherto been able to give the time necessary for searching the Minutes and other records of the College.

In publishing this Catalogue, it is hoped that the short Biographies may lend additional interest ; and although it is not intended that they should be exhaustive, an endeavour has been made to give as complete a record as possible of the appointments held by those who have assisted in creating the history of the College.

In writing the Biographies I have made use of many works, among which may be mentioned the following, viz. :—Biographical Memoirs of Medicine in Great Britain, by JOHN AITKEN ; CLARKE'S Autobiographical Recollections of the Medical Profession ; Physic and Physicians, by FORBES WINSLOW, M.D. ; Eminent Doctors—Their Lives and their Works, by G. T. BETTANY ; Dictionary of National Biography, edited by LESLIE STEPHEN ; PETTIGREW'S Medical Portrait Gallery ; COOPER'S Biographical Dictionary ; GRAINGER'S Biographical Dictionary ; The Roll of the Royal College of Physicians of London, by WM. MUNK, M.D. ; Richard Wiseman, a Biographical Study, by Surgeon-General

Sir T. LONGMORE, C.B. ; Mems, Maxims, and Memoirs, by WM. WADD ;
 Nugæ Chirurgicæ, by WM. WADD ; Men of the Time ; The Gentleman's Magazine ; The European Magazine ; The Lancet ; The British Medical Journal ; The Medical Times and Gazette ; The Records of the Barber-
 Surgeons, by SYDNEY YOUNG ; SOUTH'S Memorials of the Craft of Surgery in England, by D'ARCY POWER, &c., &c.

Valuable information has also been obtained from the officials and from many friends of the College, whose kind assistance I gratefully acknowledge.

It may be mentioned that in the Library of the College there are many hundreds of engraved portraits which the Librarian is always happy to exhibit to those who are interested in the celebrities of the Profession.

PAINTED BY SIR BALTHAZAR GERBIER. (1591—1667.)

Presented by Dr. STUKELEY, 3rd May, 1853.

Born, about 1623.

Was apprenticed to RICHARD SMITH in 1637, and appears to have acted as Surgeon in the Dutch Navy for some time after completing his period of apprenticeship. He was Surgeon to the Royalist Army in the West of England during the Civil Wars, and was present at the surprise of Weymouth Ports, the Siege of Taunton, the fighting at Truro, and escaped from England in the year 1645. He was in attendance on King Charles II. at the Hague in 1649, and accompanied the King from Holland to Scotland in 1650. He was present at the Battles of Stirling, Musselburgh, and Worcester, where he was taken prisoner, and confined in Chester Castle. At the end of the year 1651 he was liberated, and he then came to London, and became a Freeman of the Company of Barbers and Surgeons, and Assistant for a short time to EDWARD MOLINS, in 1652, when he commenced to practise on his own account. In 1654 he was re-arrested and imprisoned at Lambeth House. On his release in 1657 he is said to have entered the Spanish Navy, where he continued until 1660, when he returned to London on the Restoration of King Charles II.; he was, in that same year, appointed Surgeon to the King. He became a Member of the Court of Assistants of the Company of Barbers and Surgeons in 1664, and Master of the Company in 1665—the year of the “Great Plague.” In 1672 he was promoted to be Sergeant Surgeon to the King.

He died in August, 1676.

On 25th March, 1714, he was called to account by the Company for secreting bodies of malefactors in his own house without permission. He was Lecturer on Anatomy at, and Surgeon to, St. Thomas's Hospital, 1719-1738. He was elected Fellow of the Royal Society on the 30th November, 1711; Surgeon to Queen Caroline, 1727; Surgeon to St. George's Hospital on its foundation, 1733; Surgeon to Chelsea Hospital, 1737; Junior Warden of Company of Barbers and Surgeons in 1744; Senior Warden of the New Company of Surgeons, 1745; Master, 1746. He was the first Corresponding Member of the Académie Royal de Chirurgie de Paris.

WILLIAM CHESELDEN was chosen Sheriff of London 24th June, 1743, but was allowed to "swear off" on the ground that his estate in lands and goods was not of the value of £1500. It is said that he drew the plans of Old Putney Bridge.

Died, 10th April, 1752.

In 1840 he was appointed Lecturer on Anatomy and Physiology at Middlesex Hospital, and on the 11th December, 1843, he was elected a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons. On the 6th February, 1845, he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society. He founded a Professorship of Dermatology at the Royal College of Surgeons in 1869, and was appointed first Professor, a post which he continued to hold until 1879, when the conditions of the Professorship were altered so as to include General Pathology. He presented in 1869 a large and valuable collection of wax models of Skin-diseases to the Museum; and in 1870 he was elected a Member of the Council of the College, in 1879 and 1880 Vice-President, and in 1881 President. In 1883 he presented a valuable Collection of Anatomical Specimens to the Museum of the College.

In 1877 he undertook to pay the expenses of bringing the Obelisk, known as Cleopatra's Needle, from Alexandria to London, where it now stands on the Victoria Embankment. In 1881 he founded a Chair of Pathology at the University of Aberdeen. In 1884 the Council conferred the Honorary Gold Medal on Sir ERASMUS WILSON, in recognition of his many handsome donations to the Museum and of his great services to the College.

Died, 8th August, 1884.

Under the conditions of Sir ERASMUS WILSON'S Will the Royal College of Surgeons became residuary legatee, and received in this way the sum of £200,000.

THE FIGURES ASCRIBED TO HANS HOLBEIN. (1479—1543.)

*Purchased by the Court of Assistants,
6th July, 1786.*

On the King's right are portraits of—

Dr. JOHN CHAMBRE. Royal Physician.

Sir WILLIAM BUTTS, M.D. Royal Physician.

THOMAS ALSOP. Royal Apothecary.

On the left are fifteen Members of the Court, the front row being—

THOMAS VICARY. Sergeant Surgeon and Master of the Barbers' Company, 1530, and of the Company of Barbers and Surgeons, 1541, 1546, 1548, and 1557.

Sir JOHN AXLEFF. Surgeon to the King, and Master of the Barbers' Company in 1538.

NICHOLAS SIMPSON. King's Barber, and Master of the Company in 1537.

EDMUND HARMAN. King's Barber, and Master of the Company in 1530.

JAMES MONFORDE. King's Surgeon.

JOHN PEN. King's Barber, and Master of the Company in 1539.

NICHOLAS ALCOCKE. Surgeon to Edward VI.

RICHARD FERRIS. King's Surgeon, Master of the Company in 1563, and Sergeant Surgeon to Queen Elizabeth.

The following is an extract from the Minutes of the Court,
6th July, 1786 :—

“The Master informed the Court that having been informed that in a late sale of pictures by Monsieur DESENFANS a large and capital picture was exposed to Sale, being a Cartoon painted by HANS HOLBEIN representing King HENRY the VIIIth delivering the Charter to the Barber Surgeons in the year 1535, and having Examined the same and being satisfied of its undoubted Authenticity and that it was the Original Picture of that Subject, and Mr. GRINDALL having also Examined it and being of the same Opinion, and thinking such an Opportunity of procuring the possession of such a picture should not be missed, and being of Opinion that the same might be procured for a reasonable price they had treated for the purchase and having reduced the Terms to 50 guineas they had purchased the same on the account and for the use of the Company and the Court of Examiners had issued the price of it out of the Company's cash.

“Resolved that this Court doth highly approve of the conduct of the MASTER and Mr. GRINDALL upon this occasion and return them thanks for their attention to the Concerns of the Company.”

Mr. D'ARCY POWER, writing about this picture in ‘Memorials of the Craft of Surgery in England,’ says :—

“I have, however, recently made a somewhat careful examination of it. The principal portraits bear testimony to the masterly hand of HOLBEIN. The back row of figures on the left of the King are evidently by an inferior artist, as they bear no resemblance to those of the finished picture in Monkwell Street, some of the heads being quite grotesque and more like caricatures than the faithful portraits of

"HOLBEIN. . . . The portraits are taken upon four pieces
"of paper, which are joined together upon a canvas to form
"the picture."

Writing of the HOLBEIN Picture in the possession of the Barbers' Company, Mr. SIDNEY YOUNG says :—

"The picture exhibits a Charter with the Great Seal
"pendant, and has always been popularly known and
"described as the 'granting of the Charter to the Barber-
"Surgeons.' On the other hand, however, the King was but
"21 years of age in 1512 and 49 years in 1540, which latter
"age accords with the picture ; moreover, VICARY, AYLEFF,
"HARMAN, and the others represented, were Members of the "Court in the latter year, but not in 1512. These con"siderations are sufficient to demolish the 'Charter' theory,
"and point to the hypothesis that it is the Union of the
"Barbers' Company with the Guild of Surgeons, accom"plished by Act of Parliament in 1540, which is com"memorated."

On the 7th July, 1796, he was elected a Member of the Court of Assistants of the Corporation of Surgeons, but as the election took place at a meeting of the Court at which neither of the Wardens was present, it was found to have vitiated the Act of 1745 incorporating the Company of Surgeons, and a Committee (of which CLINE was a Member) was appointed to endeavour to obtain an Act of Parliament to legalize the proceedings. The Committee were unsuccessful, although in 1800 a Charter was granted creating the Royal College of Surgeons of London. HENRY CLINE was one of the original Court of Assistants of the College, and was elected Member of the Court of Examiners on the 10th February, 1810. GEORG FRIEDRICH LOUIS
STROMEYER, M.D.

BY W. ENGELHARD.

Presented by the Executive Committee of Subscribers to the Testimonial, 7th August, 1876.

Born at Hanover, 1st March, 1804.

Educated at Göttingen under BLUMENBACH and LANGENBECK. He graduated M.D. on the 6th April, 1826, and passed the "Staats-Examen" in Hanover. The years 1827 and 1828 he spent in England, and was for some time a Student at St. Thomas's Hospital under JOSEPH HENRY GREEN; he also visited the practice of LAWRENCE, CHARLES BELL, BRODIE, and TYRRELL. After leaving London he went to Paris, where he met DUPUYTREN and LISFRANC. In 1829 he gave Lectures on Medicine and Surgery in the Medical School at Hanover; and in the same year he began experiments on the treatment of Skoliosis. In 1831 he divided the Tendon of Achilles subcutaneously, and thus laid the foundation of Orthopædic Surgery. In 1832 he was appointed Surgeon in Ordinary to the King of Hanover, and in 1838 Professor of Surgery in Erlangen University, where he continued till 1841. He was Professor in the University of Freiburg from 1842 to 1848, in which year he succeeded LANGENBECK as Professor of Surgery in the University of Kiel. In 1849 he became Staff Surgeon in the Hanoverian Army, and took part in the Schleswig-Holstein War of that year, and also in 1850, when he acted as Surgeon-General, with ESMARCH as his Staff-Surgeon and First Assistant. In 1854 he resigned his post at the University of Kiel, in which he was succeeded by ESMARCH, and returned to Hanover, where he became Chief Army Medical Officer and adviser to King George V. of Hanover. In 1856 he was elected an Honorary Member of the Medico-Chirurgical Society. In 1866 he took part with the Hanoverian Army in the War against Prussia, and in 1867 was appointed Surgeon-General to the Fourth German Army Corps—a post he declined to accept, as it would have entailed his leaving Hanover for Magdeburg.

When the Franco-German War broke out, however, STROMEYER was appointed Chief Medical Officer of the Third Army Corps, commanded by the then Crown Prince of Prussia, whom he accompanied to Sedan and throughout the War. STROMEYER visited England again in 1872.

PROOF-ETCHING BY F. DE FREY (1798) OF THE PICTURE BY REMBRANDT (1607—1669) IN THE NATIONAL GALLERY AT THE HAGUE.

Presented by Mr. GEORGE REDFORD, 10th February, 1888.

Mr. GEORGE REDFORD, writing in 1888, says :—

“The famous picture signed and dated was painted by REMBRANDT in 1632 for the Corporation of Surgeons of Amsterdam, and kept in their Hall till 1828, when they decided to sell it for the benefit of an establishment for the poor supported by them. The right of the Company of Surgeons to sell was disputed by the Burgomaster of the City, and the King, in order to prevent the picture passing into other hands, proposed to buy it. After some discussion this was agreed to at the price of 36,500 florins, and the picture was placed in the National Gallery at the Hague.

“The picture is one of the first early works of REMBRANDT, and he was only 26 years old when he painted it.

“Professor TULP is lecturing ; on his right is MATTHEW KALKOEN with a sandy beard, his left hand on his breast ; next him is JACOB DE WILLE, in a pink silk dress, the head nearly in profile leaning forward. The figure holding a paper on which are inscribed the names of the persons is HARTMAN HARTMANS. The two next him are JACOB BLOCK in a dark grey figured dress, and I. VAN LOENEN. The

seated figures at the side are ADRIAN STABSAAN, in a dark brown dress, and full white ruff, his hand on his knee, and JACOB KOOLVELD in a grey dress, the head in profile. The figures are the size of life."

Born in London, 6th July, 1752.

Apprenticed to Mr. WATSON of London, and studied and taught Anatomy at his private Museum in the Tottenham Court Road, which was subsequently wrecked by a mob. He shortly afterwards lectured on Anatomy at the Great Windmill Street School under Dr. WM. HUNTER, but in 1777 he opened a private Theatre in Great Queen Street, where he spent his time in Scientific Researches and in teaching Anatomy. He became Surgeon to the General Medical Asylum in Welbeck Street; and on the 18th July, 1782, JOHN SHELDON was appointed Professor of Anatomy to the Royal Academy in succession to Dr. WM. HUNTER. On the 29th April, 1784, he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society; and in 1786 he was appointed Surgeon to the Westminster Hospital. Shortly afterwards his health broke down, and he removed to Exeter, where he continued his scientific researches ; and on the 25th July, 1797, he was elected Surgeon to the Devon and Exeter Hospital.

He spent considerable time in studying the art of embalming, and he believed that he had discovered an easy method of catching whales with poisoned harpoons, in pursuance of which he undertook a voyage to Greenland. It is said that he was the first Englishman to make an ascent in a balloon.
